

JOHN H. BOLLINGER

A Bollinger Family History

This effort is the result of many requests to have our family record in print. This has been made possible by the cooperation of many people. Thanks to those who made a special effort to research their family and to the committee members who spent many hours in its preparation.

A special thanks to Leona Betteridge for providing the information on the family prior to John H. Bollinger. Now that this is in print, we would hope that more information will come forward to make the Joseph Bollinger record accurate and complete.

FIRST GENERATION

Widow Bollinger came to America with sons, as found in Gibson's York County History, about the year 1754.

Widow Bollinger married Johannes Heinrich Lamott who had immigrated 1749 on the Ship Phoenix. The information we have about this family can be found in this book on page 107.

Joseph Bollinger gets land in Baltimore County, Md. as early as June, 1786. He lived in York County, Pa. and in Baltimore County, Md. The Md./Pa. line had been disputed for many years. Carroll County was not formed until 1837.

Both Henry and Joseph Bollinger are on the 1779 and 1783 tax lists for Manheim Township in York County, Pa.

In the 1798 Federal Assessment Records, Baltimore County, Joseph Bolinger is listed as having a tract of land "Bolingers Contrivance", one log dwelling house 2 sty. 26' X 24', log h____.* 332 acres and a log barn 40' X 20'. The old Bollinger farm, called "Bollinger Contrivance" is located about a mile south of Lineboro on the Md./Pa. border, now in Carroll County, Md. It is from the cemetery on this family farm that we have gotten some of our information. (See this book, pages 75 through 82.)

Joseph is in the 1810 and 1820 census of Baltimore County, Md.

When Joseph Bollinger's will (see a copy in this book, pages 83 to 86) is probated Dec. 5, 1826 in Baltimore County, Md. it lists his wife, Catherine and 17 children. When Joseph's widow, second wife Catharine dies, her will is probated May 17, 1839 in Carroll County, Md. and she mentions 11 children. (See a copy in this book, pages 87 through 92.)

We found church records of birth and baptismal dates for some of the children of Joseph and Ursula (his first wife) and Joseph and Catharine (his second wife, born 1774).

I. Joseph Bollinger

Born April 29, 1743, died Nov. 15, 1826

II. Henry Bollinger

PLEASE NOTE: The largest portion of this book will follow the line of Joseph and Ann Hofin Bollinger's son John H. and Harrietta Earlinger Bollinger's children and their descendants, pages 8 through 74.

We have some information on the other families and descendants of the Joseph and Henry Bollinger that came to America about 1754, which we are happy to include. There is some speculation where noted. Information we have for children other than Joseph Bollinger, Jr. begins on page 93 through 105.

We have established a numbering system to identify the descendants of each family.

The Joseph BOLLINGER
Family Farm Cemetery

Gravestone of our immigrant ancestor Joseph BOLLINGER.

Many stones are very well preserved, others are very hard to read and figure out.

Information gathered April 2, 198
by Bryce, Benjamin and Leona Betteridge and Merilee Edgley.

The Joseph BOLLINGER Family Farm Cemetery is located about a mile south of Lineboro, Carroll county (was Baltimore county), Maryland, very close to York county, Pa. This cemetery is situated directly above the old stone house of Joseph BOLLINGER who died 1826. The old house is still standing but has had a couple additions. In April 1985 it is owned by a Miller family. This cemetery can also be reached by a road above the cemetery where recent homes have been built. The cemetery contains 42 stones which have been gathered (before 1966) from areas all over this farm and placed in a central area to help preserve these stones which have been found and reset. They are placed in a long single row very close together in no special order. This old Joseph BOLLINGER homestead is in a lovely valley on York Road, just off the road to Alesia from Lineboro. The house can be seen from the road but the cemetery cannot be seen as it is near the top of the hill above the house in a wooded area.

The house as seen from York Road

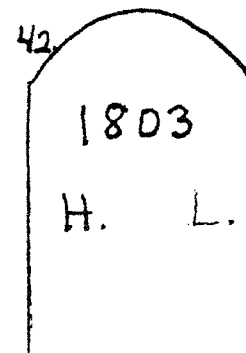

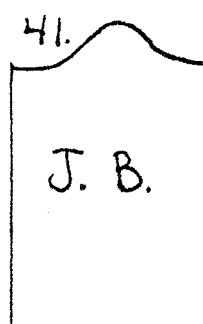

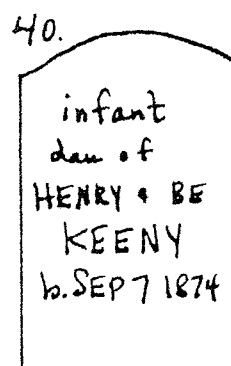

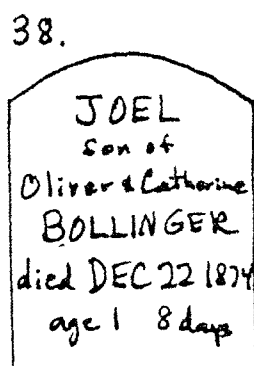

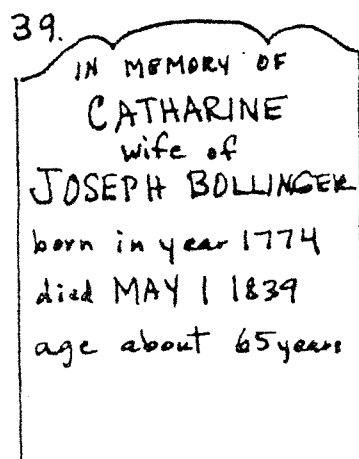

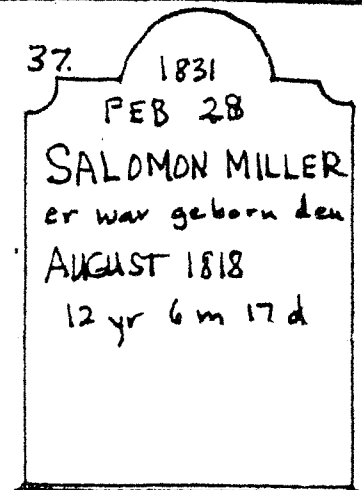

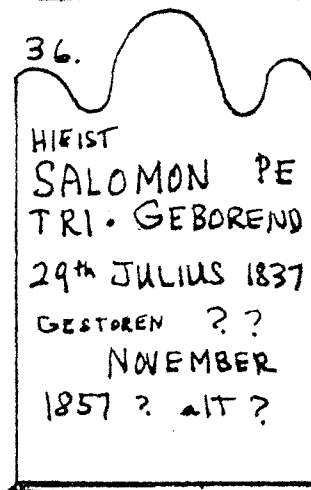

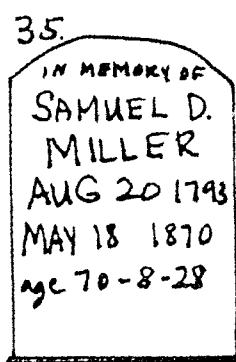

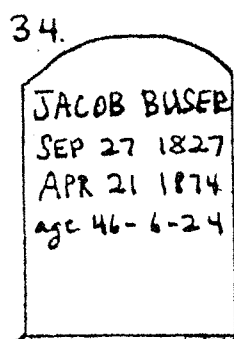

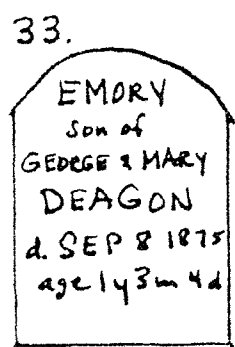

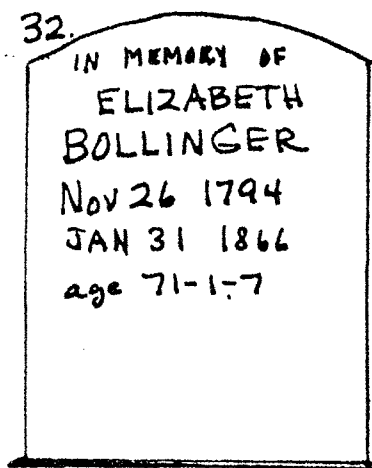

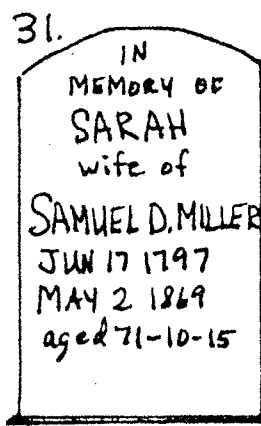

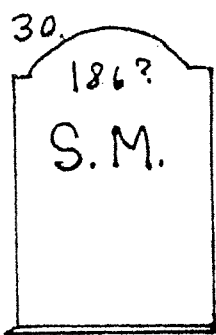

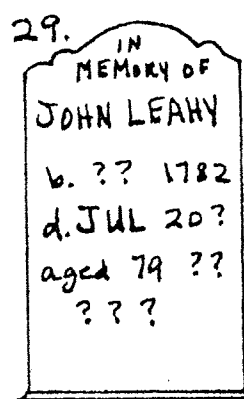

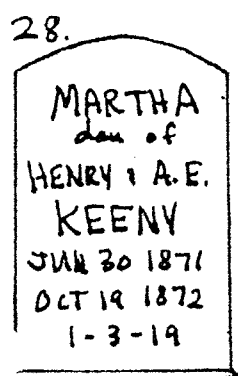

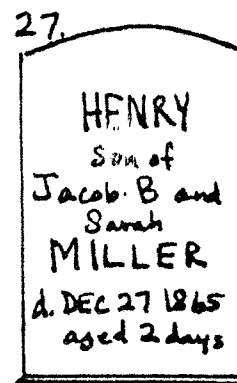

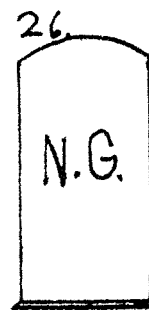

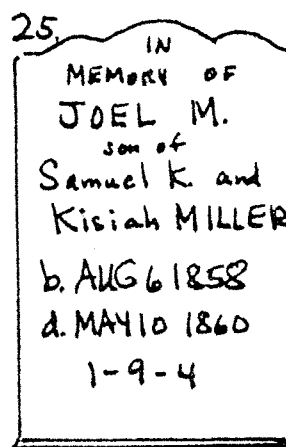

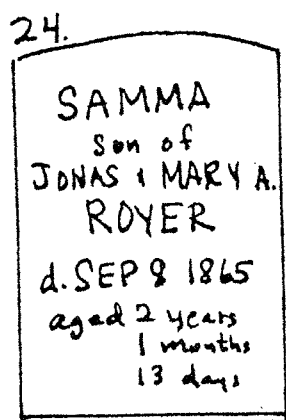

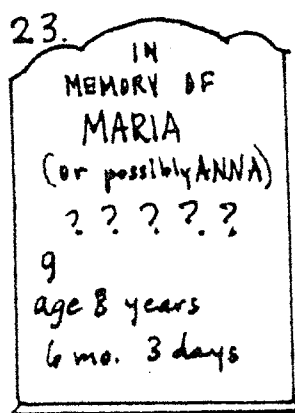

The house as seen driving into the driveway.

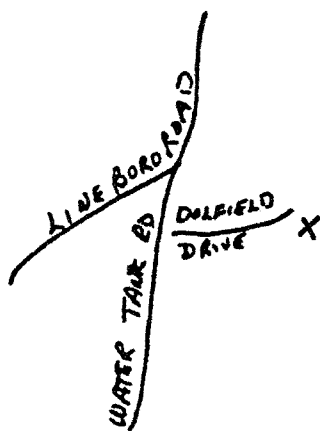

The house as seen starting up the hillside to the cemetery.

Notes for RAYMOND ROOSEVELT BOLLINGER, SR:

Sometimes I helped Pop in his duties as police chief. In fact my brothers and I helped him recover a "stolen" car. After we had searched the countryside, the victim remembered that he had walked to the bar and had left his car where he worked. He worked at the post office, about half a block from the bar. I used to ride with him when he arrested someone. I sat in the back seat, behind him, to guard his back. I also enjoyed releasing the drunks and tramps out of "lock up" in the morning. Pop was big and impressive looking. Everyone respected him. He kept the town free from vandals. He didn't put up with any nonsense. When he died, he was missed by the whole town. I often heard the comment from the people in town, "We can really tell Bolly isn't here. The other police aren't the same." It was through the buttons on his uniform that I got the nickname "Brassy." ~~10-12~~ 116

Raymond Roosevelt Bollinger, III (Trey) was born and diagnosed with cerebral palsy, Ray devoted his attention to his little boy. He would tell his employer that he would do his job to the best of his ability but that if his wife or son had an illness or their safety was compromised, his family came first. In order to take Trey on vacations and have him visit exciting places and enjoy the excitement of theme park rides, Ray put his strong arms around Trey and carried him anywhere a wheelchair would not go. His hands put Trey in position to enjoy life. Now, at this writing, Trey is a grown man of 28 years and Ray is a senior citizen of 74. Ray still plays a major roll in the care of his son. He is the one who can make Trey comfortable by lifting him back into his chair. His hands still turn Trey over in bed and insure his son is in a comfortable position for the night. Then Ray leaves to go to work so we can afford to live life instead of only existing. Because of Ray, Trey and I, his wife, can enjoy a yearly vacation and going out to a restaurant when want and going to church. Trey knows Dad will be there.

Notes for DONALD EUGENE BOLLINGER:

Donald earned his living at AMP, setting up machines, but he is best known for his award winning Angus show cattle. Cattle breeders from all over came to Donald and Mildred to get their breeding stock and 4-H participants just knew they had a winner when they raised a calf obtained from Bollinger's farm. Donald loved his farm, but his real love was for "Wifey," the affectionate name he had for his wife, Mildred. It did not take long for one to realize he lived for Wifey. The feeling was mutual. It did not take long to realize that, also. Donald was a factory worker, a farmer, a Marine, a devoted husband and a much loved brother. I am proud to say he was my brother-in-law and friend. I miss him.

The weather didn't stop this bus

by Beryl Frank

It was the year 1911 when Jim Bowers signed a contract to begin driving the school bus.

Franklin High School was the destination of the horse-drawn bus. The high school classes were held upstairs at Franklin and the grammar grades were downstairs.

That's the way James Benson of Reisterstown remembers the school bus. He ought to know because he rode it every day to school.

What was the school bus like in the early part of the 20th century? It was a horse-drawn passenger wagon designed to carry 20 pupils. There were two long seats on the inside of the wagon, each able to hold ten children.

The school bus Mr. Benson recalls was driven by Jim Bowers. Mr. Bowers came down from his own farm in Carroll County to drive the children twice a day. His school bus was drawn by a two-horse team in all kinds of weather. Only when the snow was too heavy for the horses to pull did Mr. Bowers change from the bus to a sleigh.

"We kids were tickled when that happened," Mr. Benson said. "It was great to hear the sleigh bells."

To get into the school bus, the children climbed up two steps through the back. The sides of the wagon were covered with curtains which could be rolled up or down depending on the weather. These curtains were usually made of canvas or some other heavy-type fabric.

Although the heavy curtains did offer some protection for the children on the bus, they also had heavy lap robes to put over their legs. They were bundled up well when they faced the winter weather to go to school.

The bus itself was probably made by the Stunkard Brothers Buggy Company of Brazil, Indiana. This was where so many horse-drawn school buses were made for all parts of the country.

Although they were most widely used in the farm belt of the midwest, one of these buses was brought here to Reisterstown. It would be a collector's item if it were still in existence, as these vehicles are fast disappearing.

Jim Bowers was probably the first, but not the only, bus driver in the area in the early 1900's. Wes Bollinger also drove a school route, but he drove a covered wagon type of bus.

Bollinger's school bus was much smaller than Bowers' and the route covered was different. Where Jim Bowers traveled the Cockers Mill Road route, Wes drove Berryman's Lane. He also used a team of two horses and his bus, like the Stunkard, had wooden wheels.

The horse-drawn school buses continued to be used in the Reisterstown area until after World War I. Jim Bowers bought a new modern Model T

Ford bus after the war.

Wes Bollinger switched to an International truck which had to be hand-cranked from the side. Progress put the automobile where the horse-drawn wagon had been. And it was for school children picked up at a faster pace.

The horse-drawn school buses usually made about four miles per hour. Since both of the drivers were farmers who added a school route to their regular work, they must have spent at least three hours a day on the road. But it was important then as now to be sure the children went to school.

It is still important that the children go to school. But the yellow school bus which is fed by gasoline does not compare to the romance of the horse-drawn bus. However, the lap robes for warmth and the canvas curtains on the side of the bus are today just a part of yesterday's memories.

R. Russell Bollinger Sr., contractor, dies at 72

R. Russell Bollinger Sr., a former building contractor, whose company poured the concrete for the Baltimore Sun building and One Charles Center, died of a heart attack Friday at Howard County General Hospital after collapsing in a grocery while shopping for an annual neighborhood party he sponsored. He was 72.

A mass of Christian burial was to be offered today at St. Paul's Catholic Church in Ellicott City.

Mr. Bollinger lived in the 4100 block Dee Jay Drive, Ellicott City.

Mr. Bollinger was born in Reisterstown and educated in public schools there. He graduated from Franklin High School in 1930.

After high school, he moved to Hoboken, N.J., where he began his career in the building trade as a timekeeper for the George Peterson Co., a firm that specialized in reinforced-concrete construction.

Mr. Bollinger rose to the position of superintendent at the company before returning to Baltimore in the mid-1940s to start his own construction firm, Bollinger-Leland Inc., which also specialized in reinforced concrete.

One of the company's first big projects was on the Baltimore Sun building at 561 N. Calvert St., completed in 1949. For the company's efforts, Mr. Bollinger received "an award of excellence" from the A.S. Abell Co., publisher.

Among other major projects in Baltimore, Mr. Bollinger's firm also poured the concrete for One Charles Center, the office building that, many believe, marked the beginning of the city's urban renewal efforts in the early 1960s.

He moved to Ellicott City from Catonsville in the late 1960s and sold his business to the Whiting-Turner Contracting Co. about 1970. He worked as a consultant to that firm until 1980, when he retired.

His wife, the former Rebecca Davis, died in 1979.

Mr. Bollinger was a member of the Holy Name Society at St. Paul's Church and at St. Mark's Church, in Catonsville.

Mr. Bollinger is survived by two daughters, Dr. M. Susan Bollinger and Mary Margaret Frederick, both of Westminster; a son, R. Russell Bollinger Jr. of Annapolis; two brothers, J. Edward Bollinger Sr. of Towson, and Sylvester "Wex" Bollinger of Baltimore; a sister, Anne Bollinger Feustle of Reisterstown, and two granddaughters.
